Stakeholder Information Sheet

Week of August 24-28, 2020

ELA- This week in ELA, students will discuss and write about the effective and ineffective communication used in Part 1 of Wonderstruck. We will continue to use direct quotes to support our answers. We will use strategies to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words including context clues to gather understanding of the text. We will also compare and contrast the main characters, Ben, and the girl to make connections between them and their stories. We will introduce a new novel, Maniac Magee, to our unit to connect ideas and themes. Students will summarize what they've read and compare and contrast the lives, family, and use of communication of Ben from Wonderstruck and Jeffrey from Maniac Magee. All resources used in class are located on Google Classroom. Students are encouraged to read what we read in class each night in addition to their spelling homework.

Math- We will continue our study of place value this week. On Friday, students will take a quiz covering lessons 1-4 from last week.

Social Studies- This week students will engage in group and then independent research about an indigenous group in the Americas (i.e., the Maya, Aztec, Inca, and various Native American cultures). They will determine the characteristics of civilizations exemplified by each group. Following their independent research, students will present their information to the class so all students can build their understanding of what it means to be civilized.

Science- On Friday, student scientists will investigate to determine if air is matter in Module 1 Lesson 5.
